BOARD OF HEALTH ANSWERS INQUIRY, DENIES RESPONSIBILITY

Citizens of Monessen Urging Health of Bealth to Provide Better Garbage Service—Secretary Arner Makes Reply.

The garbage question in Monessen has been one that has caused much annoyance to the people, and it seems is very difficult to wrestle with. The service at present is very unsatisfactory and daily, Secretary Arner is appealed to for relief. The following communication was received this morning and is published verbatum and is self explanatory:

472 McKee Ave,
Monessen, Pa.
Oct. 27th, 1906

Mr. Arner

Dear Sir.—"I wish to call your attention to the garbage question in our vicinity, it is over one month since collectors were around here, and the accumulation of garbage matter is a continual nuisance and menace to health, do you consider that a strenuous statement and appeal to State board in regard to the matter would be the means of enlightening the minds of our illustrious councilmen to a sense of their duty. Your attention to the matter will be earnestly appreciated".

Yours truly
C. E. WILLIAMS

Mr. Arner made the following reply explaining his position:

Mr C E. Williams

Dear Sir: "In reply to your communication received this morning, I will say that any appeal you may make to the Department of Health at Harrisburg, will be referred back to the Monessen authorities with the request to give the matter prompt attention. My advice in the matter is that your people on McKee avenue present a petition in person at the next meeting of the borough council.

This body has taken upon itself the responsibility of providing the garbage service so far as contractor and equipment is concerned; and bids have been advertised for under a specified form of contract and specifications. At the present time the service consists of one team and wagon working both night and day at the capacity of nightsoiling and garbage collecting. It is manifestly impossible to meet the requirements of the situation

Last spring the Board of Health prescribed galvanized iron cans as receptacles with the assurance of members of council that regular and systematic service was to be provided. There was immediate response by the citizens and the cans are widely used, but the improved garbage service still consists of that vile yelling apparition of death.

Now when these progressive citizens desire to have their cans removed they fall on the health officer, president of board of health, and the chief burgess, and with frantic exclamations and beseeching appeals endeavor to secure a promise of assistance In the due course of time Allied Lee is discovering somewhere and somehow and usually makes haste to get that one can.

This is the situation and while it is a disagreeable one for half of the population it is perfectly satisfactory to that half who persist in keeping all their filth. Herein lies the menace to the health of our community; and it behooves those charged with providing ways and means to speedily enter into an arrangement with some one who will render a service that is adequate."

Yours truly
A. L. ARNER.

THE JOKE ON SCHUCK.

He Wanted to Give Smiley Warm Reception But the Tables Were Turned.

C. L. Schuck the Editor and all round good fellow had a piece of fun last night cut right out of the tenderloin of one of his own jokes. About one week ago his warm personal friend, U. S. Smiley left for a brief vacation and no sooner had he gone than some one started the rumor that a beautiful wedding had taken place in the Buckeye state and that Smiley was the groom

Mr. Schuck fell in with the rumor and announced the marriage in his paper. Later a telegram announced that Mr. Smiley and bride would arrive in Monessen Friday evening on the 5:50 train Mr Schuck laid plans to give his friend a warm reception when he stopped off the train. He hired a horse and wagon; a man to drive, bought several tin horns, provided roman candles for a hundred or more people and had citizens of the town to flock to the train enmasse. A great big banner was printed and strapped around a kid bearing the inscription "Smiley Just married." All waited with eyes wide open and heads twisted in every direction, for the train, but when she pulled in, aye there's the rub, no Smiley.

Imagine the disappointment, everybody was mad, the rggregation took hold of Schuck, threw him in the wagon, tore the name Smiley off the top of the banner and made it read "Just Married" and drove down and up Donner Avenue blowing horns and serenading in a lively manner. The street was lined with people all eager to know when the editor, politician and orator had joined the benedicts Today Mr. Schuck is busy trying to convince people that he is not married—yet

STUART SCORES IN SCHOOL TAX ISSUE

Would Further Relieve Local Taxation Burdens From State Revenues.

IS A POPULAR PROPOSITION

Pennsylvania Has Been Most Liberal In General Appropriations For Educational Purposes.

The ringing declarations of Edwin S. Stuart, Republican nominee for Governor, in favor of the enactment of legislation to abolish local taxation for public school purposes and in favor of giving greater state aid for the building of good roads and for charitable purposes, have met with popular favor. His statement made in Jefferson county that he is opposed to the carrying of a large surplus in the state treasury has also resulted in expressions of approval in many quarters.

Candidate Stuart's views regarding the school tax are especially pleasing to the members of the Pennsylvania State Association for the Abolition of the School Tax.

Theodore P. Rynder, secretary of this organization, says:

"We have an organization extending over the state having for its purpose the abolition of the school tax on real estate thereby relieving especially small farmers and city home owners of their heaviest tax burden and establishing the principle that public revenues must pay for the public education.

"The organization is known as the Pennsylvania State Association for the Abolition of the School Tax.

"It has a large number of clubs in various sections of the state. It has the support of some hold-over senators. It has many candidates for assembly pledged to the measure.

"Candidate Stuart has indorsed it in at least two public speeches.

"The measure we propose would enable Pennsylvania to go on with its great system of education and give to every child within the commonwealth its just dues—an education that would fit it for the battle of life. It would solve the problem of adequate wages for teachers and adequate schools for pupils.

An Abundance of State Revenue.

"The only question ever raised has been whether the state has the financial means to do it. As briefly as may be, let me answer that question.

"The total cost for the whole state of teachers' wages, text books and supplies for last year was $15,537,020.

"To meet that bill the state now has a surplus of over $11,250,000, which by the beginning of the next fiscal year will reach at least $16,750,000. Then there can be added to this the $4,500,000 of annual current income, which during the last two years has been applied to equipping our new capitol, as well as some additional amounts that went into construction, and also the amount heretofore appropriated for the sinking fund. This $11,250,000 surplus, plus $8,000,000 regular school appropriation, plus $4,500,000 new capitol expenditures, will give us $21,250,000 with which to pay the $15,537,020 of teachers' wages, text books and supplies, and leave $6,000,000 and all interest and additional revenues to be added to apply to the ordinary expenses.

"There are abundant sources of new revenue justly used in other states that can be availed of by the next legislature should any new revenue be needed.

"Mr. Stuart's pronounced stand on this issue will, in the event of his election, enable the state to take this great advance step in public education and make Pennsylvania the leader in intelligence, as she is in material prosperity."

What Counties Got Last Year.

While Mr. Stuart is advocating further relief of local taxation from the general revenues of the state, he does not overlook the fact that enormous sums are now being paid annually from the state treasury to the several counties for public school purposes.

The records of the state treasury show that $7,832,350, mainly collected by the state in taxes from corporations, was paid to the several counties during the year 1905.

Pennsylvania Leads the Way.

Pennsylvania has, without question, the best public school system in the world.

No state in the Union appropriates anything like the sum of money which is annually set aside by this commonwealth for the maintenance and development of the free schools. No state makes anything like the liberal provisions made by Pennsylvania for the education and training of teachers and the conduct of state normal schools and township high schools.

The cause of popular education has ever been fostered by the Republican party, and that party has been instrumental in the passage through the legislature of laws which have served to strengthen and to upbuild the magnificent free school system which has been the subject of universal commendation.

The highest amount ever appropriated by the Democratic party for the public schools of Pennsylvania was $280,000 per annum, from 1857 to 1860.

From that period there has been a steady and permanent increase in the annual appropriations for public schools, until in 1905 there was paid out a total of $8,600,264 for educational purposes, or over 35 per cent. of the entire revenue of the commonwealth.

This includes appropriations made to the support of the soldiers' orphans' schools, the county superintendents, the Department of Public Instruction, and for normal schools and township high schools.

Keynote of Taxation Reform.

Mr. Stuart certainly sounded the keynote for taxation reform when he declared that the time had come when the state could accept the policy of speedily relieving farms and homes of the state from all taxation for the support of schools, and ultimately lead to the relief of farms and homes from taxation for the support of our chief highways.

This declaration of the Republican candidate for Governor is not a mere campaign invention.

It is in complete accord with the policy of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, that now assumes a large portion of the burden of sustaining the schools, for which we expend many millions annually in state appropriations, and the last legislature inaugurated the policy of placing the chief highways of the state under the care of the commonwealth, to be improved by direct appropriations from the treasury.

Protecting the Farmer.

Not only is this policy of relieving our farms and homes from taxation for schools and roads in accord with the declared policy of the party, but it is founded on the soundest principles of just taxation. Our farms and homes are less productive to their owners than any other channel from which the state draws its revenues. It was necessary to tax them for the support of the state many years ago, when there were few other sources of revenue, but when the Republican party came into power in 1860, it gave generous encouragement to capital and energy to develop our hidden wealth, and under that policy, with corporate enterprises now reaching into almost every community of the state, usually realizing profits vastly in excess of the profits of the farms and homes, every consideration of justice calls for the gradual and early release of farms and homes from the support of the schools and the improvement of our chief roads.

The Republican party inaugurated that policy a generation ago when the state was yet largely in debt, by releasing the farms and homes of the state from taxation for state purposes, and has consistently followed that policy by steadily increasing appropriations to schools, and thus lessen local taxation for that purpose, and now has established the policy of improving our highways by direct appropriations from the treasury.

Corporations have not only larger profits, as a rule, than are realized from farms and homes, but they have special privileges in their franchises limiting their liabilities for debts in case of failure, and in many other ways simplifying their business affairs, while the farmer and all private citizens are responsible for the last dollar of debt they may incur.

Under Republican rule the entire debt of the state has been paid, with equal, or quite and possibly more than the amount of the principal paid in interest, as the interest for many years exceeded two millions of dollars annually. Thus, we have drawn from the revenues of the state nearly eighty millions to liquidate our debt. We have state asylums for the insane in every section of the state, with homes for the helpless, reformatories for vicious youth and hospitals founded chiefly by state appropriations in many of the inland cities and leading towns of the commonwealth.

A Proud Republican Record.

The Republican party in Pennsylvania has emphasized the patriotic and philanthropic aims of its people by expending many millions for the support of the orphans of soldiers who gave their lives in the terrible struggle for the maintenance of the Union, and it has made the school system the grandest and most beneficient to be found in any state or country of the world.

In addition to vast expenditures in the payment of the public debt, in the construction of asylums and homes and hospitals, in the education and care of the orphans of the soldiers, in the advancement of our school system, which is accepted by all as the grandest in the country, Pennsylvania under Republican rule has a surplus of many millions in the treasury, and with all the extraordinary expenditures paid and the steady increase in the revenues of the state, the time has come when the Republican candidate for Governor can well declare to the people of the state that the homes and farms shall be speedily relieved from taxation for schools and ultimately for the construction of our chief highways.

Every consideration of justice in taxation demands it, and the policy of the Republican party has made it possible to bring this great reform in our tax system to its grand consummation.

A Fast Train.

On the Riviera line near Ventimiglia, Italy, the train, after ambling gently along, stopped suddenly. An impatient passenger put his head out and asked crustily, "Is this Bordighera?" No answer. "Guard, is this Bordighera?" he shouted again. A voice came from the fore part of the train, "No, monsieur, it is not Bordighera—it is a cow." When the cow had been removed from the line the train ambled on again. Two minutes later it once more came to a dead stop. "Another cow, I suppose?" shouted the fretful passenger witheringly. "No, monsieur, it is not," said the guard placidly. "It is the same cow."

A Costly Desk.

There is a famous old desk in the British war office in London. It is a desk to which old hands point with emotion. That desk cost the nation $25,000,000. In it is a pigeonhole with a story. It was into that pigeonhole that the dispatch of King Theodore of Abyssinia was thrust and forgotten. After we had been to war the document was found in the desk, and we all learned that there ought to have been no war.—London Sketch.

The Sting.

"I hear your firm discharged you."

"Yes, but I wouldn't mind that so much if they hadn't added insult to injury."

"How?"

"They advertised for a boy to fill my place."

Sheridan fell in love with Miss Linley and told the story of "The Rivals," which is a true account of his courtship.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—while a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

Read an old man's tribute.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything, and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the daytime, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful, and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

A POET'S SELECTION.

Markham on the Greatest Passage In English Literature.

To ask for the one most justly celebrated passage in English prose literature is like asking for the one most justly celebrated sort of fruit in the orchard. There are easily a score of equally worthy passages, each one making its especial appeal to a different mood of the mind.

Ruskin's description of Turner's slave ship satisfies our love for the majestic color and motion of the sea. De Quincey's reverie on the nebula in Orion carries a sense of the vastness and mystery of the sky. Pater's picturing of the shield of Hercules rebuilds for us the light and life of buried Hellas. Swinburne's eulogy of Rossetti astounds us with the splendor and speed of his words. Le Gallienne's prose fancy, "The Twelve Wells," stirs our hearts with the precious disquiet of old sorrows. Victor Hugo's oration in "The Man Who Laughs" awakens in us the ennobling passion of humanity. Lincoln's Gettysburg speech hushes the soul with its fine appeal to the heroic in the heart of man.

I might go on to mention Emerson, Poe, Thoreau, Hawthorne, Lake Harris, Jeremy Taylor as well as St. Matthew, St. John, Isaiah, Job and other peers in the parliament of words, but I content myself with making the one selection that is perhaps my favorite in most of my moods. I refer to that stately and sonorous passage from Carlyle's "Sartor Resartus" where he sees history as a stupendous procession forth-issuing from Cimmerian night and vanishing into pathetic and fathomless silence. Here is the passage:

"Like some wild flaming, wild thundering train of heaven's artillery does this mysterious mankind thunder and flame in long drawn, quick succeeding grandeur through the unknown deep. Like a God created, fire breathing spirit host, we emerge from the inane, haste stormfully across the astonished earth, then plunge again into the inane. Earth's mountains are leveled and her seas filled up in our passage. Can the earth, which is but dead and a vision, resist spirits which have reality and are alive? On the hardest adamant some footprint of us is stamped in; the last rear of the host will read traces of the earliest van. But whence? O heaven, whither? Sense knows not, faith knows not, only that it is through mystery to mystery, from God to God."
—Edwin Markham in Success.

Not In His Line.

Smart—I'm thinking of a trip abroad. Knox—Oh, come now! You can't afford that. You're not accustomed to that sort of thing. Smart—Ha, ha! I simply said I was thinking of it. I can afford to think, can't I? Knox—No. That's what I meant when I said you were not accustomed to that sort of thing.—Philadelphia Press.

Finished Product.

Mrs. Upmore (at bench show)—Look at that bulldog! Isn't he the most hideous and repulsive creature you ever saw? Mr. Upmore (dog fancier)—You bet he is! He's a beauty!—Chicago Tribune.

An Enjoyable Skating Party

A delightful skating party was given at the local rink last night by the Friday night skating club. It was the first of a series of similar events that will be given on Friday evening of each week from 10 to 12:30 o'clock. About one hundred and fifty persons were present and enjoyed the sport. Quite a number were present from neighboring towns, including Belle Vernon, Charleroi and Monongahela. Good music was furnished and the evening was a very enjoyable one.

HOOSAC STOCK ADVANCING

During the past month quite a number of Monessen people have become interested in the great Hoosoc Tunnel and Mining company's enterprise in Clear Creek county, Colorado, and several have taken numerous shares of stock, which has the appearance of being among the most valuable today.

Mr. E. D. Quigley of Denver, is the company's president, while Mr. Pierce Underwood of Chicago, has charge of the finances, and, with Mr. E. C. Cree, formerly with W. M. Laird, the well known shoe man, with headquarters in Pittsburg, looks after the Eastern district. A few days ago Mr. Cree visited Monessen and selected J. E. McKenney as local representative and through him several large blocks of stock have been sold.

We cannot go into details here, but those who call at his store, can learn much that will benefit them, as this stock is solid as a rock, and some who bought last week, today refuse ten dollars a share.

A few days ago the great Hoosoc vein was struck, the assay showing $82.5½ to the ton, and work is being pushed day and night, with three shifts of men, under the able management of H. P. Dickinson, an expert mining engineer.

The Hoosoc Tunnel will cut under the mountains of two counties and act as a transporter for nearly one hundred mining companies, hauling their ore and treating it at the Hoosoc's own mills, as well as draining said mines, thus earning millions each year, aside from the wealth to be taken from their own workings.

Any who have knowledge of the great Newhouse tunnel enterprise, which is not far from the Hoosoc, know that it is practical, and is making Mr. Newhouse and his associates millionaires.

J. E. McKenney, the Monessen agent, yesterday morning received the following telegram, dated Chicago: "Hoosoc vein strike grows better. Production will reach millions. Demand for stock will exceed supply at present prices in a few days. Advise how many shares you want held for your customers. Pierce Underwood."

See J. E. McKenney for descriptive literature and proofs of real worth. It will pay you. The Newhouse tunnel stock a few months ago was thought worthless by many. Today it could be bought at $10.00 and the Hoosoc will do even better, as $10.00 has already been refused by stockholders. Watch for advertising.

Owns Booth's Bed

JOHN W. VOGEL.
THE MINSTREL KING.

John W. Vogel, whose minstrels bear his name, is the owner of one of the finest private cars used in the theatrical business. It is very large and fitted up with all the comforts and conveniences that are found in a most luxurious home.

One piece of furniture of which Mr. Vogel is particularly proud, is a bed. This is of the folding style, made of solid cherry, and provided with the best and most expensive springs and mattress. This was the bed used by Edwin Booth on his last tour throughout this country when he and Lawrence Barrett were starring jointly. The Booth-Barret combination, of course, had its private car, and after the death of the eminent tragedian the car was taken back to its builders and sold, the company removing most of the expensive fittings. When Mr. Vogel was having his car built he noticed this bed, and not knowing its history made the remark that it would be a nice piece of furniture for his car. When the traveling home was delivered the minstrel owner was astonished to find the coveted bed in place and, then the builders told him its history.

The Vogel Minstrels will be at the opera house, Monday evening, Oct. 29.

In one of the most interesting matches that has yet been played on the Capitol alleys, the Capitols took two games by close margins from the East Ends. The match was exciting from start to finish, and a large crowd gathered to witness the sport. After the first game both teams settled down and rolled splendidly. Holzlsouer of the Capitols rolled the high score of the evening. Scores.

The women are ambitious to help provide the $100 yet needed to pay off the mortgage on the church lots, maturing November 10. The price will be only 15 cents.

AT THE THEATRE

"Tracy, the Outlaw," a sensational melodrama in four acts and eight scenes will be seen at the opera house on Sunday evening, Oct 27. This is the original play that as yet has been presented only in the larger cities of the country and it comes to Monessen with the highest recommendations of the press and public of nearby cities. A complete scenic production has been provided for this powerful melodrama. The play is written around actual incidents in the life of one of the most remarkable bandits of recent times, whose career though brief, was replete with occurrences of the most sensational character.

To all lovers of exciting plays this life drama will come as a particular treat in theatrical offerings. Among the members of the cast that will present "Tracy the Outlaw" are W. C. Wild, Leo Curry, Roland H. Hill, Albert Robinson, Harry B. Turner, J. C. Connolly, Frank Bovay, Wm. Mac Donald, Geo. August, Natalie Perry and Jeannette Le Blanc. A list of excellent specialties will be rendered between the acts. Popular prices—25, 35, 50 and 75 will be in order on Saturday evening, Oct. 27. This production should not be confused with repertoire company performances.

HOW TO SAVE $100.

Buy your pianos at Frederick's. You will save $100 on the purchase of a piano, the same instrument that will cost you $100 more if you buy from another dealer. Why? W. F. Frederick operates over sixty stores and agencies. The largest piano concern between New York and Chicago. Buys the annual output of many instruments he is selling, and retails to the people at factory prices. We do not deal in cheap pianos. We are asking you the same price for a good piano, as you will pay for a worthless one, and think you are getting a bargain. Where is the guarantee? We guarantee all our instruments to be first-class, and stand by every word we say.

"Think a minute." Come to our store and we will help you make the selection of a piano that will be an ornament in your home. We will make the price satisfactory. Your old instrument taken in exchange.
